

Lead Me

By Helen J. Dixon

Sometimes, all it takes is a direction
One person knowing where they want to go;
the other, just on for the ride.
Lead me; I'll follow, for I understand the road.
I want to take the journey with you.
You'll guide me take control.
And I'll be delighted you let me tag along.
Lead and I'll follow, for I don't wish to stay behind.
The carpet ride is too exciting not to find a seat.
Lead and I'll follow, for you appreciate my passenger status.
You even let me read the map sometimes.
