

I'm In the Day That I Am In

By Mark Edgemon

I stand amidst the ruins of the collection of my days;
In success financially, in patient loving from caring people;
With praise for accomplishments and dreams fulfilled;
With everything a man may establish, but not take with him.

Wasted youth and wasted life, if I do not know peace
Or have a sense of who I am
Or knowledge of purpose, that propels me into each coming day,
Mightily taking the ground that was given to me.

I rededicate to seize these greater things!

The End