

In the Stillness of the Evening

By Andrew Pell

In the stillness of the evening, there falls a quiet hush
The daily frantic activities come to an end, there is no need to rush.
Embrace the solitude and peace of the nocturne hour.
Let the evening meditation blossom like a flower.

Now is the time to commune with God in prayer.
He will show you in many wonderful ways that he cares.
Love the Lord with all your heart and mind.
New doors will open, new blessings you will find.

Enter into the sanctuary of the most high.
His presence is within you, not high in the sky.
Sleep peacefully knowing that you have been blessed by the divine.
I am his and he is mine.

Dream of paradise, let all your troubles fall away.
Remember the morning is another day.
Sleep well, slumber on in perfect peace.
The day is over, all troubles cease.
